As teens who have had someone die of COVID, we give ourselves permission to...

- Know the truth about the death, the person who died, and the circumstances surrounding the death
- Ask questions and have them answered honestly
- Be heard and listened to without receiving unsolicited advice
- Be silent and not share our thoughts and emotions out loud
- Disagree with your perceptions and conclusions about COVID and how our people died
- Grieve in our own ways – without hurting ourselves or others
- Feel all the feelings and think all the thoughts of our own unique grief
- Not have to follow the “Stages of Grief”
- Be angry at the circumstances that led to our people being exposed to COVID
- Wonder if we could have done something to prevent the person from getting COVID
- Disagree with people who are insensitive, especially those who spout clichés or inaccurate information
- Have our own beliefs about COVID, vaccines, policy decisions, other factors related to how our people died
- Be involved in the decisions about the rituals related to the death
- (Write in your own)

The mission of Dougy Center is to provide grief support in a safe place where children, teens, young adults, and their families can share their experiences before and after a death. We provide support and training locally, nationally, and internationally to individuals and organizations seeking to assist children who are grieving.

This resource was funded by the Brave of Heart Fund, founded by the Foundations of New York Life and Cigna and administered by E4E Relief. The Brave of Heart Fund was established in 2020 to provide charitable grants and emotional support services to families of the frontline healthcare workers, volunteers, and support staff whose lives were lost in the fight against COVID-19. It continues to offer support to these bereaved families via partnerships with non-profit organizations aligned with the fund’s core purposes.
